Apache Belles Mexican Visit

We Apache Belles returned Monday night after a thrilling trip to Mexico City where we were the guests of the Professional Football Association of Mexico.

We left Tyler Tuesday morning, Feb. 3 and arrived in Mexico City Wednesday night. We were met by both football teams, the Americana and Poly Technical.

We ate our meals at the Aztec Club, a type of country club. The food was the same as one could get in Texas. Saturday night was the only time we were fed Mexican food.

Thursday, we were taken sight-seeing. We visited the Floating Gardens, bull rings, and the football field where we were to perform.

Thursday afternoon, we were on television and were taken through the TV station.

Thursday night we were introduced to a new sport, Jai-alie, a game of ball played with baskets attached to the arms with which the balls are thrown about.

Friday we paraded down the main street of Mexico City. The crowds did not act like Texas crowds when seeing a parade. They followed the parade down the street and it took the entire

A Cappella Choir Of Tyler High Gives Assembly

"The harmony and tone quality evidenced talent and fine musical training, while the compositions exhibited fine musical choice."

This comment by Joseph Kirshbaum, head of the TJC School of Music, seemed to represent the opinion of all who heard the Tyler High School A Cappella Choir when it was presented in assembly, Thursday, Feb. 5.

The group, under the direction of Clyde Wolford, rendered several selections including the beautiful Russian "Hospodie Pomelui". Several former members of the choir now attending TJC joined the group to do "Lo, A Voice to Heaven Sounding."

Another selection was the delightful Russian "Picnic." The solo part was sung by Gloria Wilkerson and Doreva Bradley.

Concerning the singing of Russian choir music in this country, Mr. Wolford said that he hoped relations between the two countries could be brought back to the point where music and musical ideas could be freely exchanged and enjoyed.

The seventy voice choir closed the assembly with the soul-stirring "Battle Hymn of the Republic," accompanied by Betty Joyce Carlton on the piano.

A fitting summation of the program was expressed by Mr. Kirshbaum:

"The Tyler High School A Cappella Choir is one of the best high school choirs in the country."

Dr. Jenkins Appointed To Examiners Board

Dr. H. E. Jenkins, president, has been appointed to the State Board of Examiners for Teacher Education.

Dr. Jenkins is the only junior college educator on the Board.

The State Board of Examiners for Teachers has the responsibility of setting requirements for teacher certificates, the accreditation of colleges to do teacher training, and the general improvement of teacher education.

The appointment was made by Dr. J. W. Edgar, commissioner of education, and the Texas State Board of Education.

Pow Wow Has New Cartoonist

Ann Ford, a BBA major, will draw original sketches for future copies of the Pow Wow.

Ann has followed the hobby of art since she was in grade school and has won several awards. Her biggest award was winning second place in the state entries that was judged in Abilene, Tex., in 1951. She has also had her art work on display at the East Texas Fair.

Her natural talent for art seems to run in her family. Not only is her father an advertising artist for Coca Cola Bottling Co., but, her twelve year old twin sisters also are very good artists. Sometimes the three girls compete among themselves to see which one is the better artist as judged by their parents. Ann says that her sisters are better than herself for their age.

Cartooning is relatively new in Ann's art line and she says she prefers to do sketches of animals and people mostly. She has also done a little portrait painting.

Horseback riding and reading are other hobbies that Ann enjoys. She doesn't have a favorite of the three.

Ann is not certain as to whether she will attend a senior college after she completes her business training at TJC. However, she indicated that she would go to SMU if she did decide on a senior college.

She is planning to take journalism next year, along with her BBA work.

Pictured is Miss Ann Ford, TJC Freshman, who is the Pow Wow's new cartoonist. She will picture the highlights of "Happy Jack," who is a typical TJC student.

TJCers Have Opportunity To Save A Human Life

Every TJC student will soon have an opportunity to save a human life!

A blood donor station under the direction of the W. E. Stewart Blood Bank will be temporarily set up here within the next few weeks.

The station will afford an excellent opportunity for every able and willing student and faculty member to participate in a worthy undertaking—the solicitation of life-saving blood.

For those of you who have never donated any blood, this will be a new and wonderful experience. You will find that the feeling of self-satisfaction that comes from giving so that others may live, is duplicated by no other single deed.

The success of the project depends solely upon the cooperation of the student body.

The attainment of a one hundred per cent goal donation, consisting of a single pint of blood from each person, would be a tremendous boost in the supply of the local blood bank and in addition would certainly be a credit to Tyler Junior College.

Reds Choose Jail Over Returning To Homeland

When the recent top communists were tried and sentenced for advocating the violent overthrow of our government, they were offered a paid and safe passage to Russia—or jail. All of them chose jail!

One of them, a woman, was heard to say:

“I can see the headlines now: Communists Prefer Jail to Russia!”

After several days they made a statement to the effect that to go to Russia while a communist would be the same as asking a living Christian if he were ready for heaven. (Pardon the use of the two words in the same sentence.)

Now these were not lesser men of the party who might have been weak—these were the top core communists, the most trusted and faithful of the “cause.” They realize that to go to Russia would have the effect of walking into the Reign of Terror where human life is valueless and the dignity of men and individual liberty are forgotten phrases.

Don't kid yourselves! Democracy beats communism and even the communists know it.

The Presidency And The Olympic Pageant Offer Interest To All

Recently a group of new books was added to the college library. Two of them are THE PRESIDENCY and THE OLYMPIC PAGEANT.

THE PRESIDENCY, by Stefan Lorant, is a “pictorial history of presidential elections from Washington to Truman.” Mr. Lorant has done an admirable job in collecting facts, cartoons, and pictures about the event which keeps this country in political turmoil every four years.

From the first uncontested election of Washington in 1789 to the surprise election of Truman in his own right in 1948, this impressive volume presents the history of America as shown through the elections of our highest public official.

Perhaps the eleventh election, the 1828 election of Andrew Jackson, was one of the “hottest” and loudest. John Quincy Adams' administration had been haunted by a charge of his making a deal with Henry Clay to win the presidency in 1824. He was bitterly attacked by Jackson's supporters. However, Jackson was vilified and treated as a country bumpkin by Adams' supporters who claimed that he was just cashing in on his reputation as a fighter in the War of 1812. Numerous cartoons were circulated by both sides in an attempt to sway the voters.

It was this election that the period of “personal politics” reached its peak.

In his presentation of interesting facts about elections, Mr. Lo-

Career Folders Now In Library Show Requisites

Have you decided on a career? Are you undecided between two careers?

If you have chosen a career, do you know the requirements of that career?

A file of career folders in the TJC library has been set up to aid you in either of these three problems.

Take chemistry as an example. Do you know the personal qualifications, education, opportunities, and salary expectations of a chemist?

A career pamphlet discusses all these points and more.

The pamphlet discusses chemistry and its place in society. Then, several personal qualifications needed by the prospective chemist are listed—patience, perseverance, perception, energy, initiative, ability—to name a few.

The education needed by a chemist is outlined. Four years of college work is suggested. These courses will give the student an idea of what is in store for him in his preparation.

Opportunities for a chemist are numerous: industrial chemistry, coal-tar dyes, textiles, chemistry in agriculture, metals, glass, photography, soaps, and many others.

The pamphlet gives possible salaries in this field. Both the attractive and unattractive sides of chemistry are presented. This allows the student to weigh the advantages and disadvantages before he becomes too involved in his college courses.

In this same pamphlet chemical engineering is presented as a companion career with much the same preparation required.

Among other career pamphlets in which students may have an interest are these: Athletics and Physical Education, under which heading are included Physical Education as a Career, Career as an Athletic Coach, and Professional Athletics as a Career; Geology; Mortuary Operation; Railroad Careers; Physical and Occupational Therapy; Exploring; Radio and Television; Psychiatry; Music; Civil Engineering.

These pamphlets may be used at any time during the day in the library. You are urged to come in and browse through them as long as you wish.

You may find the answer to the most important choice in your life.

Cannibalism Outlined As Proper Diet

What would be the best diet for man? Man!

This was the conclusion of theorizing in a biology lecture by J. C. Henderson, instructor in biology.

This reasoning was developed while the biology lecture was deep in the subject of body building through vitamins and proteins, which hydrolysis and form amino acids used in assimilation of the building up process.

The parallel was this:

If you were going to tear down a house and build a brick one, which would you tear down?

The answer is naturally a brick one. Therefore meat is a better diet for man.

Along this same line, if you were going to build a five room red brick house, what would be the best type to tear down? The answer—a five room red brick just like it.

Therefore, what would be the best meat diet for man? Man.

Mr. Henderson hastened to add, however, that he did not recommend such a diet.

rant has provided the reader with a reference work of great value. Students of history will be interested in an election such as Lincoln's in 1860 or the formation of the Bull Moose party under the leadership of Theodore Roosevelt in 1912. Government students will enjoy the glimpse inside the workings of our government.

Perhaps the most important contribution of THE PRESIDENCY is the indication that our republican form of government has withstood the test of forty-two presidential elections while around us in the world, governments and ministries have fallen in every country.

* * *

The story of the modern Olympic Games is presented by Alexander M. Weyand in THE OLYMPIC PAGEANT. Mr. Weyand was a member of the 1920 American Olympic Team and is well qualified to write on this subject.

“The important thing in the Olympic Games is not winning, but taking part; the essential thing in life is not conquering, but fighting well.”

This was the creed of a Frenchman, Baron Pierre de Coubertin, who was instrumental in instigating the revival of the Olympic Games. With this quotation Mr. Weyand introduces the history of the modern Games.

The first modern Games were held in Athens, Greece, in 1896. Twelve athletes represented the United States. We won nine first places and received the largest number of points made by any one nation.

All Games through 1948 are discussed in this book. Each event is listed and the winners named. An interesting note is that Jim Thorpe's name is not present on the 1912 records because he was disqualified for being a professional.

Mr. Weyand has written an interesting account of the Games with many anecdotes and sidelights to make it doubly entertaining. Every sports fan will be interested in this book.

Never bear in mind more than one trouble at a time. Some people bear three kinds: All they have ever had, all they have not, and all they expect to have — Edward Everett Hale.

Model Office Set Up For Business Class

Advanced TJC business students will now have a chance to learn just how the “boss's secretary” feels.

A model office equipped with modern desks, matching secretarial chairs, corresponding bookcase, modern pictures, lamps, and draperies, is the newest addition to the Tyler Junior College department of business.

Students will get actual on-the-job office training in the model office, under the directorship of Miss Johnnie Armstrong, business instructor. They will get actual working conditions for training in office procedure.

The practice office, designed for secretarial training under actual working conditions will be available for use this semester.

In addition to the beauty of the office, Dr. H. E. Jenkins, president, explained its practical value:

“The office gives emphasis to actual working situations in secretarial training and office practice.”

The training-on-the-job program resulted from several months of planning by the business faculty and school administrators.

Wanda Johnson, new student at TJC, is the latest addition to library assistants. The two other assistants are Martha Carson and Jo Ann Hurt.

A group of TJC students recently performed at a March of Dimes Variety Show in the new high school auditorium in Henderson.

James Mullinax, Dick McCarty, Jimmy Smith, and Larry Alexander were first on the program singing “I'm Yours,” “Squeeze Me” and “Perfidia.”

Lanny Norris then gave a reading “To Be or Not to Be a Soldier.”

Tyler ended its portion of the program with three numbers by the Apache Belles, including a tap routine and two precision numbers.

Word comes from the registrar's office that your shopping around for courses is over—deadline for changing schedules was Feb. 6. From now on, it's WORK.

First to enter and complete registration for the spring term was Brooks Hardee.

Hardee came to TJC from Chandler High School. He is a resident of Chandler and commutes each day.

He is a pre-law student, interested in debating. He hopes to deal eventually with Civic Suits, Court Room lawyer.

After graduation from TJC next year, he plans to enter the University of Texas.

Shirley Bracken, TJC ex, now attending SMU, was back on the campus, Friday, Feb. 6.

Boys at the dorm are always glad to get mail, but they were especially glad this week while the Apache Belles were in Mexico.

After the longed-for correspondence did arrive, there were many comparisons made regarding size, length, and date mark. But contents—that was strictly private.

The coach was putting the class through a course of exercises to toughen them up, and one fellow with more brains than muscle began to get tired.

“Every man on his back!” barked the coach. “Legs up in the air! Now pretend that you're riding a bicycle. Faster! Faster!”

The tired one waved his legs a few times, and then stopped.

“Hey, you!” shouted the coach. “What's the idea?”

“Who, me?” said the bright one. “I'm just coasting down a hill.”

The more we study, the more we know.

The more we know, the more we forget.

The more we forget, the less we know.

The less we know, the less we forget.

The less we forget, the more we know.

Wags Wigwam

By CATHERINE SELLERS

The old reservation has changed quite a bit since between-semester holidays. Quite a few Apache warriors have departed, and others have come to don warbonnets for the black and gold and bring new laurels to Apacheland.

Trinity University, San Antonio, has claimed Back Billy Wayne Andrews, End Joe Krysa, Back Joby Witt, and Guard Billy Roberts.

Fullback Virgil Patton, Quarterback Bobby Page, Tackle Tiny Foster, and Tackle Bill Robinson have enrolled at Midwestern University.

Other departing Apaches include Guard Joe Bright now at Sam Houston, Huntsville; Tommy Brundrett, Lee College, Baytown; Guard Bobby Maxwell, Lamar College, Beaumont; and Linebacker Johnny Rodgers, Hardin-Simmons, Abilene.

Halfback John McMillon is now attending the University of Texas but may not play football.

Fullback Glenn Davenport and Junior Deaton left without announcing future plans.

Several new personalities on the campus include Richard Carroll Brister, a transfer from Hardin-Simmons who plays either tackle or center. He is a graduate of Burkbank High School, San Antonio.

Two more Burbank High products, Guard Mike Gultiz, and Back Kenneth Kiwamura, are also enrolled.

Another back, Fred Clements, comes to us from Jacksonville.

The new addition to the basketball team is Carlos Hernandez. Hernandez, an El Paso boy, plays either guard or forward and is a Jefferson High school graduate.

Former Apache cagster, Clyde 'Buster' Carlisle, and wife Frances have moved again; this time to Southwestern University in Memphis, Tenn.

Buster, who saw considerable action as an Apache guard last year, transferred to Centenary College, Shreveport, La., this year only to be ruled ineligible until mid-term.

The national junior college basketball champions of the past two years have been products of the Region XIV tournament. Tyler won here in 1951 and went on to take the title at Hutchinson, Kansas. Wharton repeated this performance in 1952.

Sitton Would Be Welcomed By All

James Sitton, sophomore letterman, is a starting forward on the Apache cage team.

Coach Floyd Wagstaff observed: "James is one of the finest athletes ever to attend TJC, and perhaps deserves more credit than he receives. He works hard and does a very, very good job."

Sitton favors a one-handed push shot and has averaged 12 points per game in 25 contests this season.

When asked which position he favored, guard or forward, the 6'1" Laneville product replied:

"It doesn't matter just so long as I am playing basketball."

Sitton has spent 9 of his 20 years in cage play, beginning in the sixth grade when he played on the junior team.

His senior year in high school he was named all-regional and played on Loneville's district 58-B championship team.

A fine person and athlete, James Sitton would be a welcome addition to any college campus.

"Old Ironsides," the first steam locomotive built by Matthias Baldwin, cost $3,500. A modern locomotive today costs around $500,000.

Apache Coach Flanakin Has True Indian Blood

One of our gridiron chieftains here in Apacheland has a bit of Choctaw Indian blood, but his achievements and success at Tyler Junior College label him a true Apache.

Coach Jasper Flanakin, TJC line coach, comprises one-third of the three-man team which has made our Apache warriors nationally famous in the football world.

"I live football," Flanakin remarked, "and yet the actual coaching of the linemen is only a small portion of my job — and really the easiest part."

Flanakin works with the linemen collectively and individually, teaching them the rudiments of both defensive and offensive play and strategy employed on the gridiron. In addition he teaches two physical education classes and a physical training class, scouts opponents, sells season tickets for both football and basketball games, and does anything else required in the general athletic program of the school.

Another chore, perhaps hardest of all, is that of visiting outstanding gridsters and persuading them to attend TJC.

"Then of course there is the job of keeping them happy while they are here," Flanakin observed.

During his three years here Flanakin has helped guide the Apaches through 30 victories against 5 defeats, and only one of the defeats (against Wharton last fall) was by a margin of more than eight points.

He counts the Kilgore game in 1950 and the Cameron game this year as his biggest professional thrills and the Little Rose Bowl game last year as his biggest disappointment.

Other coaching experience includes a year as line coach for Henderson High School in 1949 when the Lions won eight and lost two.

Flanakin realized a boyhood dream of getting a college education when he accepted a football scholarship at Baylor. Although he entered the army before completing his freshman year, he returned to college after three years in service to letter three years at end

Apache, Aggie Joust To Be Held Feb. 14

Students!

The Apaches Need You

(An Editorial)

As witnessed by an impressive record of 20 wins against only 5 losses, Coach Floyd Wagstaff has produced another winning basketball team for TJC.

We students of TJC are used to a winning team. We take it for granted that we will come out on top because through the years the Apaches have been consistent winners.

As a result we feel it unnecessary to spur our team on to victory by attending the basketball games and yelling for them.

Yet who is the first to groan when our team loses?

Who is the first to cry, "Wha' happen?"

We are—those of us who, more than likely, did not even attend the game.

When we paid our tuition, an activity fee was included which entitled us to an activity card. That card admits us to all school activities, including basketball games, free.

Coach Wagstaff and the basketball boys work hard to win for us—the least we can do to repay them is to come and yell for them.

Surely every loyal Apache, brave or maiden, will not deny them their due.

See you at the Cameron game Saturday night!

Cameron and Tyler shared the conference basketball title last year, and the Aggies are considered the strongest contender in this year's race.

Undeclared in conference play, the Aggies have recorded victories over Little Rock, Paris, and Kilgore.

Three returning starters from last year strengthen the Cameron quintet's chances. Also their 6'7" center, a mid-term transfer from the SMU Colt team which has twice defeated TJC's Apaches, poses a real threat.

Cameron spirit is always high against Tyler. When the Apaches traveled to Lawton last year they found an Aggie team backed by the entire student body.

Several pep rallies had preceded the game, and when Cameron defeated our Apache five the spectators went wild.

Coach Floyd Wagstaff urges every TJC student to be at the Cameron game to yell for the Apaches.

"The spirit of the student body does much to inspire the boys to greater efforts and justify the hard work it takes to win," Wagstaff explained.

Aug. 22, 1945 as soon as he returned from overseas. They have three children, Martha Lind, age three; James Brent, 16 months; and Suzanne, born Christmas night, 1952.

While serving with the 20th Armored Division during World War II, Flanakin saw active duty in France, Germany, Belgium, Holland, and Austria. His division won a presidential citation for gallantry in action, and he was decorated with silver star.

Flanakin praises the people of Tyler as being very pleasant, and remarked:

"I am very much satisfied with my job at Tyler Junior College. I expect to be coaching a long time."

With his impressive record of achievements in education, sports, and coaching, Coach Flanakin is truly worthy of his position as an Apache chief.

Engineer's Club Publishes New TJC Directory

The student directory was published this year by the Engineer's Club.

The Engineer's Club, under the sponsorship of Miss Mabel Williams, undertook the job with some misgivings; but due to the salesmanship of Richard Harvey, Dan Horton, Joe Wyatt, Neil Beasley, and Robert Warren, the task of financing was quickly completed.

Several students assisted in typing the list of names furnished by the registrar.

The engineers are particularly grateful to those who bought advertising space. This advertising paid the cost of printing and added some money to the Engineer's Club treasury.

Claude Obar, president of the club, and Richard Harvey had charge of the sale of the directories.

There are still plenty of the directories available and anyone wanting one should contact the Engineer's Club.

The student directory had been one of the projects of the Phi Theta Kappa group until this year.

New Bus Schedule Met With Mixed Student Opinions

The 15 minute change in class time was made with bus students in mind. A poll of a few bus students' reactions concerning the new schedules brought these comments:

Wanda Robertson—Van: "I like it."

Nevilledeen Crofford—Quitman: "I think it is OK for this time of year, but it's too late to get home in the winter."

Charles Moore—Driver of Grand Saline bus: "I like our new bus schedule because I get to sleep later."

Susie Lanier—Arp: "I don't like it. I had rather go to school the fifteen minutes in the morning rather than in the afternoon."

Harold Greenwood—New Summerfield: "It suits me just fine since I get to sleep longer in the mornings."

John Carter—Flint: "It's alright. It doesn't make too much difference since I have to leave home same time."

Slick Slale—Winona driver: "I had rather have the old time. It makes me get home earlier in the evening."

James Mangum—Big Sandy: "I get to sleep later!"

Photographer Due Here February 13

Spring Pow Wow Staff Hopes For 1952 Attainment

The 1953 Pow Wow staff hopes to publish a paper that will merit the same praise from Dr. H. E. Jenkins and the School of Journalism at the University of Texas as did the staff of the 1952 publication.

"The Pow Wow this year has been full of news and it has been reported in a fine manner. TJC is proud of it," stated Dr. H. E. Jenkins.

Dr. Dewitt Reddick, professor of journalism, University of Texas, checked copies of the 1952 Pow Wow and summarized his comments.

"The staff managed to secure an unusually high quality of work," he stated in a letter to the journalism class concerning the actual writing of stories.

"The make-up is prepared with a good eye to the principles of contrast and harmony," continued Dr. Reddick, in discussing the arrangement of the stories on the pages.

The 1953 staff has set as its goal the publication of a paper equal to that of the 1952 Pow Wow.

BELLES---

police force to keep them corraled. After the parade we were taken to University City where the universities of Mexico City are located. The buildings are all modern architecture with modern art work on the sides of the buildings.

The most unusual sight seen on the campus was the gym. The gyms were replicas of pyramids without any windows.

Friday night we were taken to the Capri where we heard Mexico's Frank Sinatra, Pedro. They then sang "Blue Moon" and the "Eyes of Texas."

Saturday was the day of the big game. We were taken shopping Saturday morning, and each proprietor of the shops gave us discounts on what we bought.

The game was played in a stadium that seats 120,000. We did not sit in a special section as we do here. We sat in a dugout under the stadium. At half time we performed in our war bonnets and the crowds went wild.

Friday and Saturday nights the football teams serenaded us at our hotel.

Sunday morning we boarded our train and headed for Tyler. Even though we had an exciting trip, each of us was glad to see Tyler.
